ANATOMY WORKSHOP

November 2012

Date - tbc

We have secured the use of the excellent facilities at St Andrews University for a third course due to take place in November 2012.

For those of you who attended in 2008 and 2010, you will be pleased to know that we are currently arranging a dissection workshop during the forthcoming course, which we feel will further enhance the learning experience.

Please keep checking our website for further information. And, if you wish to receive email notification, please ensure we have your details on our mailing list.

PREVIOUS COURSE

April 2012

Local Anaesthetics: An Update for Podiatrists

We invited Stuart Metcalfe, one of UK's leading podiatric surgeons, to present the above course for us. Covering all aspects of LA from the pharmacokinetics to useful tips on performing an ankle block, the course was highly rated by all of our delegates. In addition, Stuart kindly gave our delegates 4 free online courses to use on his CPD website, EliteCE, providing yet another way our delegates could add to their CPD portfolio.

WE WOULD LOVE TO HEAR YOUR SUGGESTIONS

The group work hard at presenting courses which we feel are useful for everyday clinical practice. If you have any ideas for courses that you think we should run, and perhaps know of a group which would like a presentation on a particular topic, please send us an email and we will endeavor to add the course to our list.
